COURSE DESCRIPTION

This class is a study of the basic principles of American political life: Democracy, equality, and liberty. Through a close reading of core texts of the American political tradition, we will attempt to see how these ideals took hold in the US, what arguments were made on their behalf, and what possible pitfalls there are for a society dedicated to those ideals. We will also be looking the ethical questions involved when leaders seek to put those ideas into practice.

The course will proceed entirely through a close reading of primary sources. There will be units on John Locke and the basic principles of liberal democracy, on the ratification debate, on Alexis de Tocqueville's Democracy in America, and on race. The class will close with a study of Abraham Lincoln's political thought, which will also be an occasion for a comprehensive reflection on the main themes of the course.

This class carries a "Cultural Diversity in the US" flag. In our unit on race, we will explore African American political thought by reading the writings of Frederick Douglass, Booker T Washington, WEB Du Bois, Martin Luther King, James Baldwin, Ibram X Kendi, and Glenn Loury. We will see how they wrestled with the question of what American principles mean to people who have suffered under slavery.

This class also carries an "Ethics" flag. Ethics courses are designed to equip you with skills that are necessary for making ethical decisions in your adult and professional life. You should therefore expect a substantial portion of your grade to come from assignments involving ethical issues and the process of applying ethical reasoning to real-life situations. We will do this by thinking about the difficult political and ethical questions faced by figures like the Founders, Frederick Douglass, Booker T. Washington, WEB Du Bois, Martin Luther King, and Abraham Lincoln.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS AND GRADING RUBRIC

First Paper: 25%

Second Paper: 25%

Final Exam: 30%

Short Writing: 10%

Attendance and Quizzes: 10%

Final exam. There will be a cumulative final exam given on Friday, December 9, from 8-10 AM. The final exam will include quote identifications, short answer questions, and essays. I will discuss this further in class.

Papers. There will be two papers assigned in this class, with a length requirement of 1000-1200 words. Papers will be graded both on substance and on the quality of the writing. The shorter papers are due October 14 and November 18. I will distribute each paper topic on Canvas at least 13 days before the paper is due.

You may rewrite your papers. If you rewrite, your final grade will be calculated as a weighted average of your first grade (counts once) and the grade of your revised paper (counts twice). Rewrites will be due two weeks after the paper is returned.

Short writing assignments. There will be three short writing assignments. There is a short paper due on September 9. Also, when you turn in papers (including the short paper), you will write a review of another student's paper that will be due the following week. I will give additional instructions about these in class. Each of the four short writing assignments will be worth $\frac{1}{4}$ of this portion of your grade.

Attendance and Quizzes. Attendance is required at every class meeting. You get two unexcused absences with no immediate penalty. After that, for every class you miss, your attendance and quiz average will drop by 10% (which is equal to 1% of your final grade). Having more than 8 unexcused absences—including the first two, for which there is no other penalty—will result in automatic failure of the course. Since the pandemic is still an issue, I encourage you all to err on the side of caution if you are feeling sick and stay home. You are required to email me with the subject heading "Absence" to let me know that you are missing class, but I will excuse any health-related absence, and will not require a doctor's note.

There will be pop quizzes at the beginning of many classes—roughly once per week. These will be quizzes on the reading for that day, and they are meant to be easy if you have done the reading. If you have an excused absence, you will be allowed to make up the quiz. If you have an unexcused absence, you will not be able to make up the quiz. Quizzes will take place at the beginning of class, so be sure to be on time.

Your attendance and quiz grade will be calculated as your quiz average, minus whatever penalty you incur for missed classes.

Class participation. This is a discussion intensive class, and you are expected to come to every meeting having done the readings and prepared to offer your thoughts and interpretations of them. You can improve your grade by as much as $\frac{1}{3}$ (say, from B to B+) through excellent participation.

GRADING POLICY

We will use the plus / minus grading system for this class. Quizzes, tests, and attendance will be graded numerically. Papers and participation in discussion sections will be given letter grades. In order to calculate your final grade, these will be translated into number grades as follows:

A: 97; A-: 91; B+: 88; B: 84.5; B-: 81; C+: 78; C: 74.5; C-: 71; D: 65; F: 30

Grades in between two letters grades count as the average of those two grades—an A-/B+ is an 89.5, for instance. Final grades are calculated numerically, then translated into a letter grade using the following scale. Please note: grades will not be rounded up! You need a 93.5 average to get an A.

A: 93.5-100; A-: 90-93.5; B+: 87-90; B: 83-87; B-: 80-83; C+: 77-80; C: 73-77; C-: 70-73; D: 60-70; F: below 60.

REQUIRED TEXTS

It is important that everyone have the assigned editions of every reading in order to cite the texts properly in your papers. You are required to have copies of all the books for this class. Please note that electronic editions will not be allowed. You should have a paper copy of each book, and you are required to purchase the course packet.
