Course Description

This course takes an in-depth look at congressional elections. In addition to analyzing the congressional elections in 2022, we will develop a framework to understand the critical links among voters, candidates, campaigns, and Congress. The first half of the course discusses campaigns and elections. The second half of the course deals with election outcomes and their consequences on policymaking. The readings for the class include both contemporary journalistic accounts of the election and analytic frameworks from political scientists. An energetic classroom requires student participation. If need be, I'll compel you to participate.

Special Needs

The University of Texas at Austin provides upon request appropriate academic accommodations for qualified students with disabilities. To determine if you qualify, please contact the Dean of Students at 471-6259; 471-4641 TTY. If they certify your needs, I will work with you to make appropriate arrangements.

Grades

Grades will be determined according to the following formula:

- 15% Attendance, Homework, and Class Participation
- 20% Midterm Exam I
- 20% Midterm Exam II
- 20% Midterm Exam III
- 25% Course Project

I frown on issues of academic dishonesty and will severely punish any student caught plagiarizing, cheating, or engaging in any other unethical classroom practices. I will not accept late assignments. Beyond the flexible deadlines discussed above, I will not accept excuses for missing pop quizzes. I do not offer make-up exams. All grade disputes must be dealt with during office hours and within one week of receiving the grade. I will use plusses and minuses in this class, with the 0.7 and 0.3 at cutoffs. So, an 82.9 is a B- and an 83.1 is B; an 86.9 is a B and an 87.1 is a B+.

Course Readings

The course readings consist of the following:

- Gary C. Jacobson and Jamie L. Carson. 2019. The Politics of Congressional Elections, 10th Edition. Rowman and Littlefield.
